POETRY.

(Written for The Progressive Farmer,) SWEET BYE AND BYE.

There's an island across the deep and watery And by low prices we can see its influence For Shylock contracts the currency every day, To establish a monarchy here, as it is over

CHORUS: In the sweet bye and bye.

The International Monetary Conference shall Rimetallism on that European shore. In the sweet bye and bye it shall restore Bimetallism on that European shore.

The goldbug shall speak on this American shore, The fallacious arguments of Rothschilds, Sherman and the test, But their spirits shall be sorrowful to the core When the day of retribution comes for the South and the West.

To the Wall street banker whom they love, They will render political obedience and their ibute of praise,

For the precious gift of a campaign furd,
And the blessings of a gold standard which makes a debt hard to pay in these days. WALTER GARDNER.

HOUSEHOLD.

SEED CAKE.

Oge cup of butter, two of white sugar, three eggs, half a cup of cara way seed, and flour enough to make a stiff paste. Sprinkle the board with sugar, roll out the dough very thin, and cut it in rounds. Bake about fifteen minutes.

Beat together one cup of butter and one cup of sugar. Add three wellbeaten eggs and one pint of milk, stirring well. Then add one quart of wheat flour sifted with two teaspoofu's of baking powder and one cup of yellow Indian meal. Bake in muffin rings in hot oven. SPANISH FRUIT PUDDING.

Line a baking dish with a light puff paste, add a layer of shredded pineapple, and cover with sugar, add a away. layer of sliced oranges, and then a layer of bananas sliced, sprinkle with sugar. Repeat the process till the dish is full. Cover with a light puff paste and bake. MINT SAUCE.

ial

Four dessertspoonfuls of chopped pouch of tobacco. mint, two of granulated sugar and gravy boat. Add the sugar and vinehours before serving.

BOILED SALAD DRESSING.

them five or six tablespoonfuls of vincpepper, two tablespoonfuls of oil and a given. pint of cream. Cook in double boiler two weeks, and is excellent for lettuce, celery, asparagus and cauliflower.

SCALLOPED EGGS.

hard, chop them not too fine. Line a crumbs, then a layer of cold boiled ham, or bits of fried ham chopped fine, then a layer of eggs, and so on till the dish is full. Season the layers with salt, pepper and little bits of butter Moisten with a little cream and set into the oven for ten minutes, or until thoroughly heated.

LIKE A YOUNG WOMAN.

"My dear child," Miss Susan B. Anthony replied, when asked the secret the secret of my good health to the fact that I never abused it. I have always made it a rule of my life to be regular in my habits. I have a time for everything. I live on simple muscle and brain-giving food. I have not broken down in my campaign life because eat a hearty dinner before speaking in | hours!" public; on the contrary, I eat very after a heavy evening's work.

Wemen need at least nine hours' sleep | the prospectors into their hands. and sleep. This has been my rule of dition under the leadership of Clay.

IN THE FACE OF DEATH.

BY T. T. F. ORDWAY.

"The horse is mine, and you nor any other man shan't ride him without I say so!" "And I say the horse is mine and I'll ride him without asking your leave, or anybody else's." The two men faced each other with lowering brows and defiant looks, when a small quiet looking man limped forward and interposed.

"Come, now, drop this foolishness If I hear another word about that mus tang I'll shoot him, and end the fuss. I'm captain of this outfit, and as long as I am there's got to be peace in the family!"

There was a ring of authority in his voice, and a flash in his blue eyes that showed him to be a natural commander, and one not to be trifled with. The two angry men stood sullenly silent, while he went on more genially:

"Come, shake hands and call it a draw: at any rate till we get out of in the outfit quarrelling! You can't either of you ride the horse now, anyway, and from the way things look it is a mighty slim chance whether you ever will. If you're spoiling for a fight those redskins out yonder will accomodate you, at the drop of a hat! Come, drop it, I say, and shake hands like

But the two beligerants looked scowlingly at each other and then at hands they turned and strode sulkily

They had trapped, hunted, starved, reveled, dug gold and fought Indians together for years. Each had more than once risked his life for the other, in the same matter of fact way in couple of days longer, maybe, but afwhich he would have handed him his ter that we'll be past praying for.

When Sam Finch had been stricken quarter of a pint of vinegar. Wash by small-pox in a Crow village, and all the mint, which should be young, the Indians who were not yet attacked freshly gathered and free from grit. had fled in terrified haste, Tom Collins Pick the leaves from the stalk, mince had stayed, and for six long weeks them very fine, and put them into the | waged his solitary fight with death -his only companion the snarling gar, and stir till the sugar is dissolved. | coyotes and the heavy winged buz This sauce should be prepared several zards, his only rest the few brief moments he could snatch when the raging delirium of his patient was over Thoroughly beat five eggs, put into come by bodily exhaustion; till at last the sick man crept feebly back to life, gar, two even teaspoonfuls of made and could be taken by his devoted mustard, one teaspoonful each of salt | nurse to where more efficient, though and sugar, half a saltspoonful of red not tenderer, care and help could be

And now these two were as bitter in till it thickens like soft custard. Stir feud as they had been close in friendwell. This will keep in a cool place ship. The question at issue was the ownership of a grand black stallion that had been lassoed while leading his wild herd on the plains between the An appetizing way to serve eggs for | Mogollones and the Colorado Chiquita. breakfast is to scallop them according | His neck had first been encircled by to the following directions: Boil them | Collin's lasso, but the tough hide of the lariat had been gnawed by a coyote, so pudding dish with a layer of bread that it broke when the wild horse plunged. Before he could thunder away, the lasso of Finch held him.

> "My horse!" said Finch. "I stopped him," said Collins.

"He'd have got away without me, for your lasso broke," cried Finch; and so the quarrel began. At first they spoke laughingly, then angrily, till things were said on both sides that neither man thought he could ever forgive. Meantime the black, which had been broken to saddle in one day's of her wonderful vitality, "I attribute rough riding, was used by none of the prospecting party.

> As the disputants strode away Clay muttered to himself:

Queer what fools men will make of themselves! The idea of those two men quarreling about a horse when the chances are a thousand to one that I never would indulge in dissipation or | their scalps will both be fluttering at late suppers after a lecture. I do not the end of Apache lances within 24

The sun was about an hour high and | feet. lightly. After my lecture I do not ac- the wide, level mesa glowed and quivcept invitations to swell suppers. I go ered in the heat. North, south, east, straight to my rooms, take a bath and | west, wherever Clay looked, he saw drink a cup of hot milk and eat a the cordon of Apaches. Some sat on cracker. I think if I lived down in their ponies like grim statues, some New Orleans I would merely eat an were stretched on the ground asleep, and that black stallion ought to carry It was—and what a shout rose from orange and a cracker before retiring some galloped down the little canon a man to the fort by sun-up. Kirby'll those parched throats!—it was a bugle for water, but all waited quietly for not wait a minute when he hears what's call. Hark! I sounded: "Another thing, human nature de the time when their grim allies, heat, wake up in the morning without feel men who had started from Taos three ing refreshed, then the human machin | weeks earlier under the guidance of ery is out of gear, and the equilibrium John Burt, who came in from no one must be restored or nervous prostra- knew where, sorely wounded, and protion or a general breakdown is the re- testing that he had prediscovered the sult. This is inevitable. Nature won't famous, long lost Canon de Oro of the be cheated. Women try to do too "Valley of Death" in Arizona. He much. The overdrawn drafts on na- brought with him a nugget of gold as ture must be paid. When there is large as a baby's hand to bear out his tearing down there must be upbuilding story; he told how he had barely eluded faction, instead of merely the chance at the same time or the structure falls. the Apaches, after they had killed all of saving the lives of others, at the This up building in the human wear his friends; he swore that the Canon and tear is accomplished by food and de Oro literally shone with gold; and sufficient amount of rest, recreation the upshot was this prospecting expelife. Any woman may build up a Two days before this Juh's band of strong, healthy constitution by follow- Apaches, out on the warpath, had at- ride. As each ounce of weight would ported by a trooper on each side. On whelming force. Burt and three others had fallen at the first fire, and the rest, fighting desperately, had at last succeeded in taking refuge on a mound about a hundred feet long by fifty feet wide, rising some ten feet from the

from the ground, and hollow pits, where the roofs of the lower chambers had fallen in showed it to be the ruin of one of the "pueblos," once so common all through that country. It furnished a position impregnable to the dashes of | tote," were Collins' reflections. the undisciplined Indians, who had at last settled down to starve the defenders out. The whites had food enough for several days, but no water. This the Indians could procure from a little branch of the Colorado Chiquita, which ran about five miles away, but the beseiged had no such recourse

One of their number, Aleck Pike, wounded in the first day's fight, was already delirious from his wounds and from thirst, and the rest were suffer ing greatly; for the two days siege and here. I can't have the two best men loss of rest joined to the burning sun, which aggravated their thirst, was telling fearfully upon them.

"Sweet prospect, this, for a man with a wife and two kids waiting for him in Taos!" said Clay to himself. 'Well, Sallie, you're a plains man's daughter, and you knew what kind of a life mine was before you married me -and-I wish you'd been home so that I could have kissed you good bye before I started. But I've been in worse Clay. His influence was too great to places than this before now and saved permit of a continuance of the quarrel my scalp, and please God, I may see in his presence, but instead of shaking you and the kids yet before the redskins get me."

He limped over to where the men were standing and said aloud:

"Well, boys; something's got to be done. These fellows out there seem to quick. Anybody got anything to pro-men, "is to make a dash and cut our feeble groan from Pike, the wounded way through, if we can."

"Yes, if we can, but we can't. Those here and die, like a trapped ki yote! to the sick man; "we can't take him with us and it won't do to leave him behind."

here to die, when it won't do him any stick together, and I'm goin to do my when the grip of death was broken, part of it."

are we from Fort Merritt?" "About sixty miles."

"And what way?"

"Due north, as far as I can make it. Why?"

us might slip through the redskins thought Finch. "Bah! All the horses yonder, and get to the fort and let the from the Rio Grande to the Columbia troops know how wer're fixed. Cap'n | weren't worth one hair on Tom Collin's Kirby wouldn't ask anything better | head! Oh! what a fool-what a fool than a chance for a slap at old Juh."

one could get through."

might strike; and a fellow might as well die there as here."

men?" he asked presently. "There ain't no show to get through," said one.

"We might as well try it. We can't | wretched monotony on the mound. do worse," another protested.

chance, will any one here try?" "I will," said Collins and Finch, in

"I spoke first," growled Collins. "I'm the lightest weight, Cap," said fighting to the bitter end. Finch, eagerly.

"S-h!" said Clay, gravely, "let's see. The moon will be down by 9 o'clock, oppressive stillness of the dry night air? Cheshire, D. D., of the Episcopal Organizer for Eleventh district comup, and the troops ought to get here by mands a certain amount of sleep. thirst and exhaustion, should deliver the middle of to morrow night, anyhow. We can hold out till then, I out of the 24. If you go to bed and These were a party of twelve strong think. It's our only chance; guess you'd better try it."

> "Which one of us?" asked Finch. "Collins, I reckon; he spoke first."

angrily, as he turned away, while Colline smiled triumphantly.

One would have thought, from the called out: "Hello! All safe?" aspect of the two men, that the prize, won or lost, had been some great satisrisk of his own.

Collins began, an hour before the moon | the middle of the group, on a black went down, his preparations for his charger, reeled a swaying figure, suptacked Clay's party with an over- tell in the struggle for life which lay his bare breast was a crimson streak.

before him, everything not absolutely essential was discarded.

A lariat, looped around the horse's lower jaw, and a saddle blanket strapped tightly on the back formed the faintly, "the redskins have got me steed's outfit. Pantaloons, light moc- this time. Ease me down." casins, and a handkerchief around the Irregular lines of stone wall, jutting head to keep his long hair from blowing into his eyes, made up the rider's on the ground.

If I get to the fort I can get a jacket and hat from the soldiers; if I can't get arm went tenderly under the dying there, there'll be less for old Juh to man's head.

Into his pocket he slipped a Derrin ger, saying, I don't take any chances ride him. How dark it is. Say-say-on being taken alive." Strips of blankets were tied deftly around the horse's feet, that no chinks back, and the quarrel between Sam one of Pennsylvania's eloquent orators, of hoofs on stone might warn the keeneyed besiegers of his passage; and owned the mustang, was over forwhen the moon was fairly set, Collins | ever. led his stallion down the slope of the mound, vaulted upon his back, and saying quietly to Clay: "If the troops ain't here by an hour after moonset, to-morrow night, you may know I am gone under," and stole slowly away in the darkness."

Those left behind waited, listening, with anxious hearts, to hear the tumult which would announce that their messenger's flight had been discovered.

Five minutes passed—ten minutestwenty minutes; Clay had just drawn a long sigh of relief, and was turning away with the remark, "I reckon he's safe by this time," a flash caught his eye out on the plain. Another and another succeeded; and the report of rifles came to their ears.

"They've seen him! They're after him?" exclaimed Finch; but vainly did the beleaguered watchers listen and strain their eyes for further indications as to the fate of their courier.

Would he outstrip his pursuers? have taken root. We can hold out a Had he escaped, or was he already dead, or a pinioned prisoner, helpless to aid them? These were questions We've got to do something, and do it which no one on the mound could an-

The night dragged by and another "Only thing I see," said one of the day of thirst and suffering dawned. A man, drew Finch's attention. He walked back to where poor Aleck lay, fellows out there are too many for andawkwardly, but tenderly, adjusted his head in a easier position. As he "Well, anyhow, I'd rather go under stood looking down upon him, he with a bullet through me than stay thought of another sick man who once lay delirious in a Crow lodge, and "So'd I, but there's Aleck," pointing loathsome from head to foot with festering disease.

He remembered, too, who it was that had nursed that sick man through that "No use of the rest of us staying time of horror, who had stayed by him and watched over him as tenderly as a mother over her child, even when the "That may be, but we promised to stoical Indians had fled appalled-who, had painfully carried him for weary "Cap," spoke up Collins, "how far mile upon mile till help was reached; and then, laying down his helpless burden at the post surgeon's feet, had fallen, senseless, in the middle of the parade ground.

"And I have quarreled with this "Well, I was thinking mebbe one of man-this brother-about a horse!" I've been! Can I ever make it up to "Hum! yes; but I don't think any. Tom for the wrong I've done him?"

The day, with ever increasing, mis-"There's no telling where lightning ery, wore away. With mouths too parched to talk, the men lay watching at their posts. Aleck had died at noon. Clay hesitated. "What do you say, Save now and then a plaintive neigh from the thirsty horses, or a distant whoop of derision from the expectant Apaches, scarcely a sound broke the Clay sat and watched the sun sink "We'd better stick together-we're behind the distant range. "I nor none snowed under, anyhow," still another of us, will ever see another sunset," he murmured to himself, "unless Tom got

"Well," said Clay, "if it's our only through and perhaps not even then." Gradually the darkness descended and night gathered about them; but the same breath, both springing to their still, grimly at their places, the frontiersmen lay, well nigh hopeless now, but none the less determined to die

But what clear, sweet sound was that which suddenly broke on the dull,

"Open order, fours!" "Draw saber!"

"Trot! Gallop! Charge!"

Then came flash on flash, and loud hurrahs, blending with wild, fierce yells and the rumble of charging calvery. Soon a dark form of a horse-"Just my luck?" growled Finch, man detached itself from the surrounding obscurity and dashed up to the foot of the mound. An anxious voice

"All safe, thank God!" said Clay, reverntly. "Show a light, then!"

In a moment a fire of dry sagebrush shot up, and the light glistened on the In one of the hollows of the mound, bronzed faces and the panting horses screened from the sight of the Indians, of Kirby's troop of dragoons. But in Rushing down the slope of the mound, Finch reached his side.

"Tom, are you hurt?" "Killed, I recon, pard!" he said,

They lifted him down tenderly from the horse, and laid him on a blanket

"Sam," he whispered.

"Sam-the mustang's-yours. Don't -hold it-again me-that I said-I'd

POPULAR SCIENCE.

Mountains are climbed in central Africa by the aid of a long loop of cal ico called a "Machila." The climber leans back at one end, while six or eight strong men pull at the other.

Sir Robert Ball, the Astronomer Royal for Ireland, is said to believe that the time is approaching when posterity will be able to construct machinery that will be operated with he at obtained by the direct action of the sun's rays.

"The unprecedented death rate in England, largely due to influenza, and especially severe upon old people," says the Medical News, "has, of late in London, reached so high a figure as 38 5, and in Liverpool, the frightful rate of 55 5 has been recorded."

The waters of North America, which means the Gulf of Mexico, the two great oceans and the rivers, creeks and lakes, are stocked with 1800 different varieties of fish. Of the above number five hundred are peculiar to the sea and about six hundred to the rivers, Patents Thos. P. Simpson, Washington, D. C. No attorney's fee until patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide. ber five hundred are peculiar to the sea creeks and lakes.

Dr. A. E. Bridger expresses the opinion in the British Medical Journal that in the act of kissing we encounter only beneficent organisms. He says that "The advantages of kissing outweigh its infinitesimal risk, for it provides us with microbes useful for digestion.' This will be a popular verdict.

SALEM COMMENCEMENT.

Correspondence of the Progressive Farmer.

WINSTON, N. C., May 31, 95. The 93rd year of the well known Salem Female Academy has just closed with a brilliant commencement. From the opening concert to the closing exercises on commencement day a spirit of harmony ran through the exercises, which appealed to the hearts of the numerous visitors who thronged the auditorium. The Salem commencements are looked on in the light of musical festivals, and visitors come from far and near to hear the talent that is displayed before them,

Events of more than local interest lent charms to the programme. The presentation of the Vance Memorial Window, that graceful tribute of the class of '94 to the illustrious statesman and the expressed intention of Mrs. Vance to be present at these exercises was a subject of interest to the State

This famous school has this year en rolled upward of 500 pupils in its catalcgue, 400 in the regular academic department and about one hundred in special branches. The pupils and alumæ delight to do honor to their alma mater and the class of '95 will place a handsome organ in the chapel as a memorial, while the alumnæ at large are discussing the erection of a Stonewall Jackson memorial.

The commencement opened with a delightful concert on May 25th. The elements seemed to be conspiring against its success, but the hall was thronged nevertheless, its seating capacity being entirely too limited. Each number was perfectly rendered, and the vocal elocution departments may well be proud of their pupils.

Sunday morning the Rt. Rev. J. B. Church of North Carolina, delivered a posed of Rowan, Cabarrus, Mecklenmost learned and ornate sermon; the music was unusually good, and the great organ pealed forth a glad welcome to the many guests. Sunday evening Bishop Edward Rondthaler, D. D., pastor, tenderly bade the many pupils and their friends "God speed."

Monday and Tuesday evenings the Seniors were in charge. In their classical Oxford caps and gowns they indeed present a charming sight, and the masterly way in which the essays were handled evinced careful literary training. The 53 graduates appeared in groups of 5, each treating some given subject, such as "World's Heroes," "Is Woman's Position Changing?" etc. This arrangement was somewhat novel, but proved most interesting Tuesday afternoon the art exhibit attracted much attention. The academy chapel was decorated with the art productions of the pupils, and another Madison, Henderson, Transylvania and interesting feature was the Loan Ex- Polk.

hibit, with a glimpse of Old Salem, prepared by the alumnæ.

Wednesday was alumnæ day, and a truly interesting one. In the morning class reunions were held, replete with tender memories; in the afternoon the Alumnæ Association held their annual conference, rendered unusually interesting by the presentation of the Vance Memorial Window by the Hon. J. C. "Yes, old pard; what is it?" Finch's Buxton, of Winston. His speech was worthy of the occasion and the speaker.

Thursday was commencement day. The graduates in the academic and special departments occupied prominent places on the restrum. The address of the day was delivered by The handclasp loosened, the head fell James M. Beck, Esq, of Philadelphia, Finch and Tom Collins, as to who and the brilliant effort will long be reremembered. Bishop Rondthaler awarded the diplomas with appropriate words, and Rev. J. H. Clewell, the principal, gave a brief closing address. The class song was rendered with the benediction. The commencement of '95 passed into history.

R. E CARMICHAEL.

a Will need the NORTH CAROLINA

MANUAL OF LAW AND FORMS. The latest, the best Form Book in existence for this State. Price, by mail,

TALKS ABOUTLAW, by Judge R. W. Winston. Price, by mail, 60

Address. EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Printers and Binders. Raleigh, N. C.

1895 -SUMMER- 1895 Millinery.

Summer Millinery for Ladies, Misses and Children, in trimmed and untrimmed HATS at reasonable prices. Hats of all kinds, Zephyrs and Fancy Goods sent on approval. Express

Articles.

paid one way.

MISS MAGGIE REESE. Raleigh, N.C.

ALLIANCE ORGANIZERS

Jas. H. Wright, Carlton, N. C., Organizer for Sixth district, composed of counties of Johnston, Wake, Durham, Granville and Vance.

C. McG. Dunn, Populi, N. C., Organizer for Seventh district, composed of Cumberland, Robeson, Bladen, Columbus and Brunswick counties. Elijah W. Flake, Rockingham, N.

C., Organizer of Eighth district, composed of Harnett, Moore, Richmond, Anson, Union, Stanly and Montgomery counties. Geo. E Hunt, Michael, N. C., Organizer for Tenth district, composed of Guilford, Rockingham, Stokes, Forsyth, Davidson, Davie, Yadkin and Surry counties. J. P. Sossaman, Huntersville, N. C.,

bug, Gaston Lincon and Iredell coun-First district, composed of the counties of Currinek, Camden, Pasquotank, Pergumans, Chowan, Gates, Hertford, Rev. T. W. Babb, Hertford, Ninth district, composed of Randolph, Chatham, Orange, Person, Caswell and Alamance, J. R. Means, Trin ity College, N. C. Fourth district, Don C. Sanders, of Burgaw, N. C., Organizer. Counties in the district, Wayne, Duplin. Onslow, Pender, New Hanover and Samp-

Twelfth district, composed of the counties of Alexander, Wilkes, Alleghany, Ashe, Watauga, Mitchell and Surry, J. W. Cox, Edwardsville, N. C. George W. Hahn, Tuscola, N. C. Organizer for Fifteenth district, composed of the counties of Haywood, Jackson, Swain, Macon, Graham, Clay and Cherokee. A. W. Parker, Sylva, N. C., organizer for the 14th district, composed of the counties of Buncombe, Yancey,